Excerpt: .has never ceased, nor can it hereafter cease, to be with me an object of the deepest interest. Therefore it is that I send in my resignation before the end of the session, that your honorable body may be able to make and promulgate arrangements for the next course of lectures, before the class shall disperse. In taking a final leave of an institution, which for many years, has been an object of affection, hut to the prosperity of which I can no longer contribute the influence of my feeble exertions, I cannot forego the opportunity of expressing I1 hope, that it will continue to flourish, until it shall reach the high distinction and impart the solid advantages, anticipated in its foundation. I have the honor to be, respectfully, your obedient servant, DAN. DRAKE. You will perceive, from the tenor of this letter, and...
