

Trade, aid and economic development - A comparative analysis between Georgia & Latvia

By Michael Krause

GRIN Verlag Sep 2007, 2007. Taschenbuch. Book Condition: Neu. 210x148x1 mm. This item is printed on demand - Print on Demand Neuware - Seminar paper from the year 2006 in the subject Economics - International Economic Relations, grade: 1,00, Saint Mary's University (Economics), course: Course: Development Economics, 17 entries in the bibliography, language: English, comment: My paper focuses on international trade and foreign aid in relationship with economic development comparing two former Soviet Union states: Latvia and Georgia. Communism divided the economic world into two different camps, with countries characterized by centrally planned economies and others with a free market economic system. After the Soviet Union was dissolved in 1991, now capitalism equally separated the former Soviet nations. On one side countries adjacent to the high developed countries o , abstract: The paper focuses on international trade and foreign aid in relationship with economic development comparing two former Soviet Union states: Latvia and Georgia. Communism divided the economic world into two different camps, with countries characterized by centrally planned economies and others with a free market economic system. After the Soviet Union was dissolved in 1991, now capitalism equally separated the former Soviet nations. 20 pp. Englisch.

READ ONLINE
[8.79 MB]

Reviews

Certainly, this is actually the very best job by any author. It really is rally exciting through studying time. You may like how the blogger write this pdf.

-- Rudolph Jones MD

Completely essential go through ebook. I was able to comprehended almost everything using this created e pdf. You will not sense monotony at anytime of your time (that's what catalogs are for relating to if you request me).

-- Timothy Schulist